Launch demo mo Success Registration Successful OK Back to all Resources Feasibility check of your Startup Idea Parul dadhich17-Dec- anywhere or with anyone! Sometimes it is so spontaneous to our mind that you never know, it can take you through the journey of becoming a successful entrepreneur.

Idea can be in the form of providing a problem solution products/services or creating a new niche altogether which doesn't exist in the market. The uniqueness, relevancy, and adaptability are the key factors which can play immense role in successful development of your idea into a fully fledged Product or Service. It is very crucial to get the answer of this question b go ahead

20CIS THIS VIABLE20D???

Understanding your Idea completely and then doing this check of viability is important to proceed towards making a successful Business Plan.

The job is half done if you could really find a gap or address a problem which consumers are facing or might face in the upcoming years. Logical and economical solutions to make lives easier can never go futile if put together with proper planning & research.

If your Ideas do not appeal to your target customers it is never too late to take a pause, rethink and redesign your creativity. So, Feasibility study of An Idea is the first move towards a Startup development stage. Such studies sometimes turn the ideas into multiple product or service development for your business model.

Imagining the every possible negative side of your idea and finding the capability to overcome them during different business cycles is the key to successful startup.The farsightedness and optimism of any entrepreneur also needs the reality check of his or her idea by performing such studies.

If your Idea passes through this Feasibility study check, then only you should move to creating a business plan. Idea Assessment stage:

At this stage you perform the relevant checks for your Idea whether it's a fully grown idea or does it need further adaptations even before its implementation. This assessment will also check if your target consumer is ready to adopt your product/service. At this stage the parameters shall be set to measure the effectiveness of your proposed product or service line. Product development strategy: If you have identified the problem, and of course if you think you have the right solution for that then try to find answers to such questions: 1. Does it solve the entire deficit present in the market? 2. Is your product worth to be paid by anyone? 3. Can you measure the solution provided, like scale it to 1 to 10 Any competitive advantage

Why any customer would switch to your product? Does your idea stand out of the crowded market and offers something diverse and value for money? Unless you find answers to such questions there is a big risk of non acceptance of your idea. A competitive edge over others will always help you to tap existing as well as new consumers. Product/service testing

Every year several startups enter the market, but only few of them survive and that depends how much time did they spend on ideation stage by checking the viability in practical manner. If your product can be tested before launching on real grounds it can add an extra checking tool for its success or failure. Scalability of idea in future

Getting into an entrepreneur's shoes is like building a door yourself if opportunities do not knock! The endless perseverance and risk taking ability will always inspire you to take big leaps in future. So after actual product launch and its success, you must know how to take it to the next level. Scalability to a wide range of market segment will require accelerated funds, so you must be ready with your plan.

Skill set for ideation to startup setup

Sometimes you have the excellent idea in your head but you don't have the required skill set to develop it technically. Most of such products need lot of viability checks on technical fronts. e.g. any fintech startup which wants to develop an app for smooth payment mechanism will require a team of solution architects to develop such system. So engaging the suitable expert's team for your idea development is crucial at this early stage.
